

BIG DATA: CHALLENGES AND SOLUTIONS

Shraddha Pandey
BE(CSE) 7th Sem
Jabalpur Engineering College, Jabalpur(MP)

Abstract

The growing need in today's era poses a big challenge over the management of data which is produced from diverse sectors. Not alone this, but also to extract the useful and considerable amount of information from the data which is available in our surroundings. In this paper the focus is on the discussions of big data, the everyday challenges that are faced and solutions to overcome the same. The first part provides an introduction on the big data growing tremendously in industry on a day-to-day basis, second part emphasis the concepts involved in big data, third part relates to the daily challenges and the last section sees to the efficient ways which are used for the management of big data.